Runescape Construction is not very important as a beginner. Just like Fletching, you can ignore it unless you need it for a quest. But once you account reaches a high level. As it makes traveling so easy by using different teleports you can build inside your house. To start training it, you need to buy your house for 1000 coins from the Estate Agents. After that, you can start building various furniture to level up your Construction. Each thing you can build requires different materials, you can check them by left-clicking the skill. You can also be a host for other players to use your house and they can pay you tips for that. OSRS Construction Guide Support Skills Agility (member) Agility Courses List, Old School Runescape If you are a member, then you better start training it from time to time. As this skill is very important for your run energy and accessing many shortcuts around the map. The higher your Agility level, the slower your run energy is drained. Also, each shortcut requires a specific Agility level, so a higher level will always be awesome. Agility is maybe the most boring skill to level up in the game, but in the long term, it is worthy. You can start training it by using the Agility courses around the map. By completing each course you gain a certain amount of Agility EXP. You may also bring Stamina potions with you to repeat the course faster. You can check each course and the required level by left-clicking the skill then choose a course. OSRS Agility Guide Thieving (member) Thieving List, Old School Runescape Thieving is not important for beginners. But at a higher level, it can be used to make money. It allows you to steal items Golden coins of NPCs around the map and be able to unlock traps. To train it, you can start the NPC's Pickpocket, the top higher in the NPC, the best Exp You wins. There is a chance to fail and the NPC will start to attack it. But the higher the thieving you, the lower the likelihood of failing. In addition, there are many items that offer successful bane, like Silken gloves. So you are better to have this to earn more exp for time. You can check out which NPC you can steal by clicking on the left of the ability to check the list of thieves. The OSRS thieves guide killer (member) is a very important skill, even for a novice player. It is better you start to train it, as it unlocks lucrative monsters around the map. That you can also make huge money by killing them. To start training Slayer, you must assign to tasks based on your combat. You can do this from a killer master. The task asks you to kill certain monsters located around the map. By killing these monsters, you are obtaining exp in combat skills and also Slayer Exp after finishing the task. Slayer points are the reward for each task, which can be used to buy certain items from any Master of the Master. Items like Slayer Ring or Slayer Helmet are examples of what you can buy. As a beginner, you should get your ternael tasks located in southeastern Burthorpe. This is because it will provide below tasks not to be completed. Ternael Location, Old School Runescape by clicking on the left of the skill, you may check the list of killers. Slayer List, Runescape of the old school that is everything, I hope this guide has helped you know the different skills. In addition, knowing which skills are important in terms of priority.
